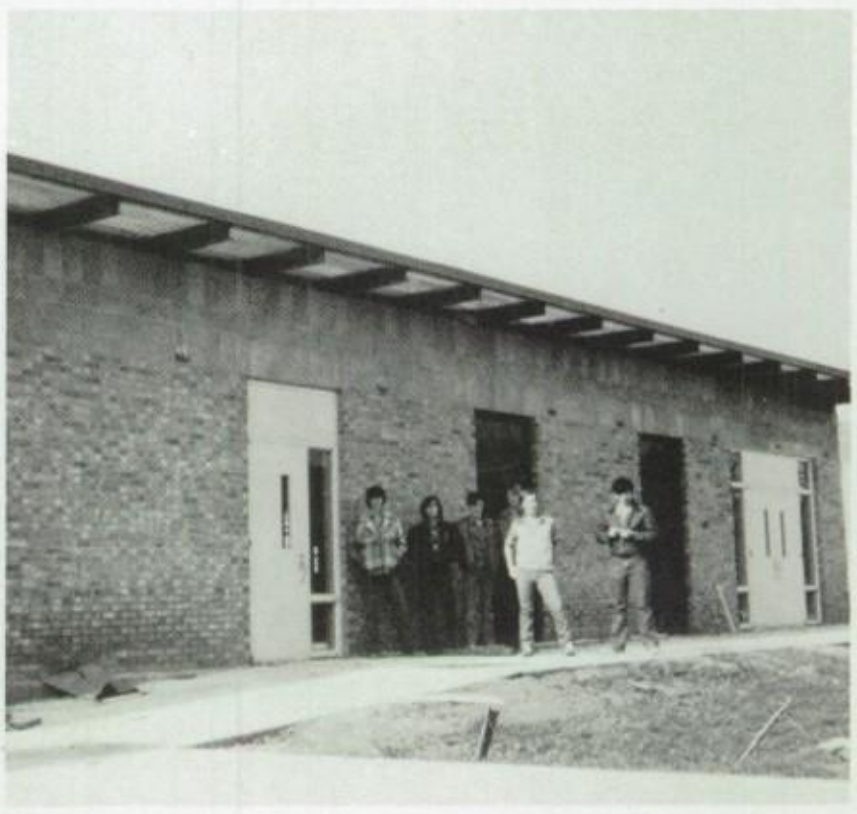
LAFARGUE HIGH SCHOOL

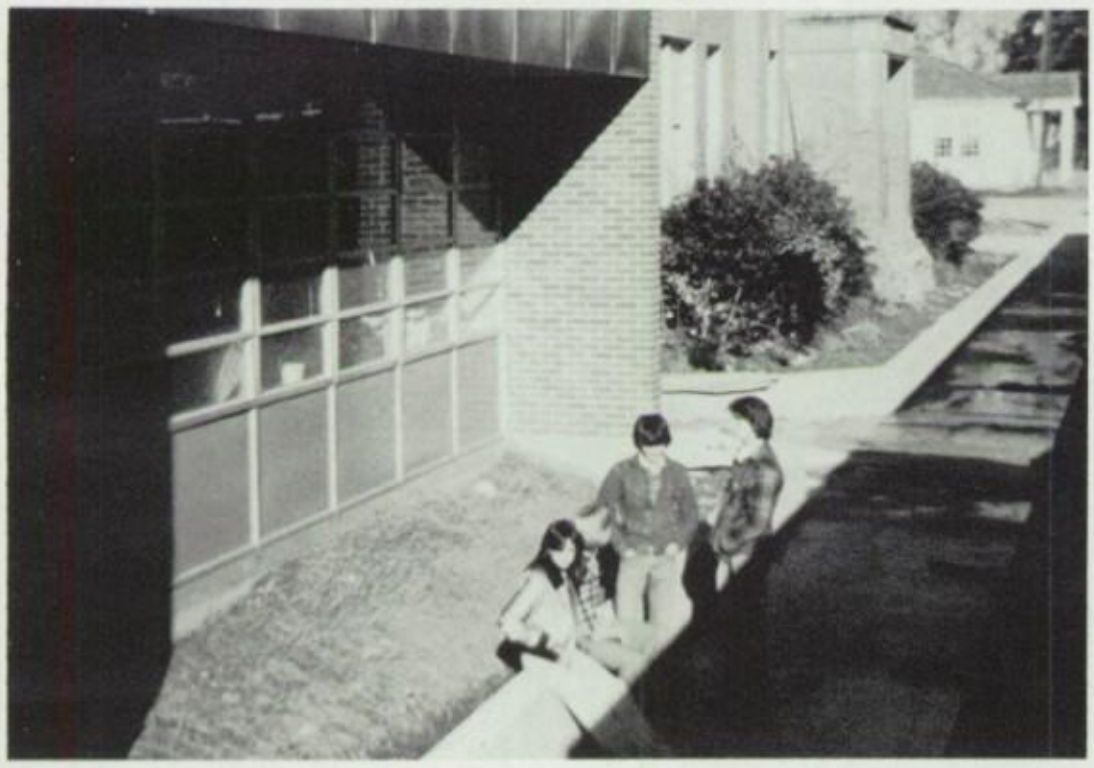
EFFIE, LA

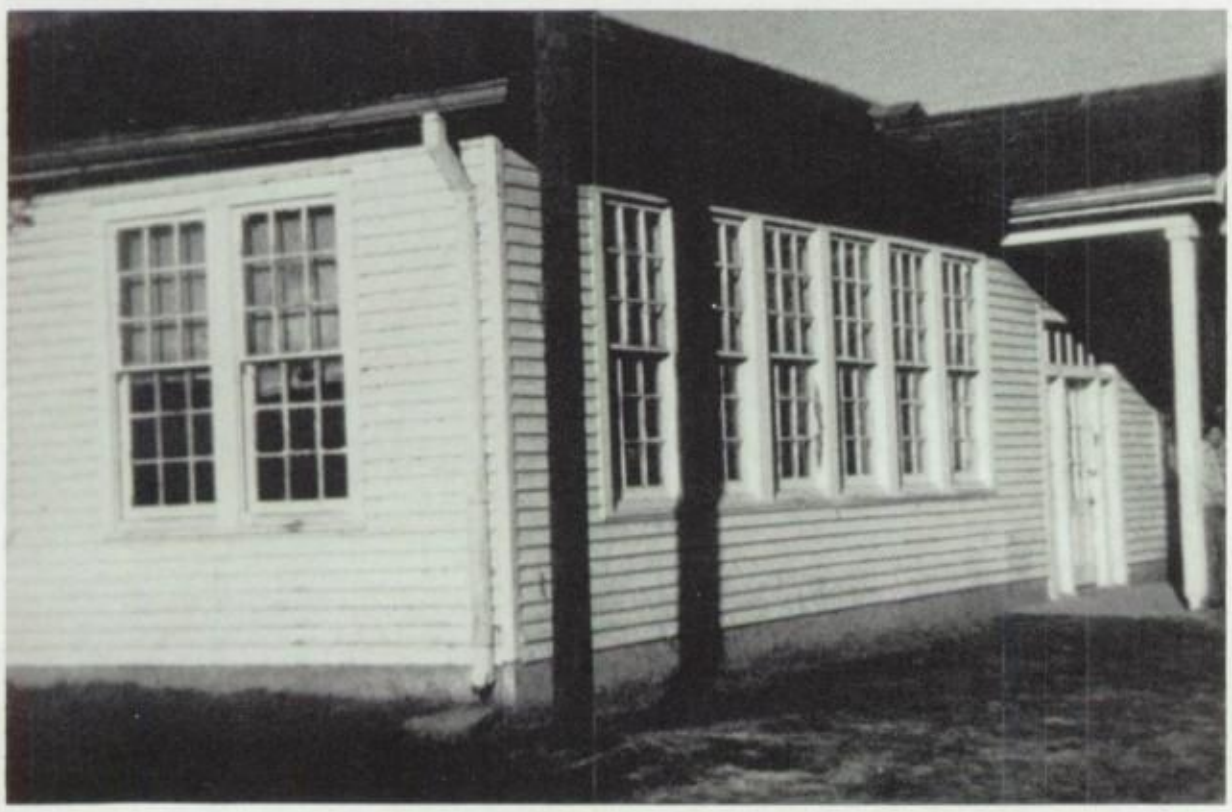
Foreword

"The purpose of education is not just to know but to live." In the next few pages we have attempted to show not only the academic part of our school, but also the "living" side of school life. As we look back, we realize we have learned as much about life and living from the comradery of our classmates and teachers as we have from textbooks and classes. We, as students, need both phases of school life to prepare us for the world we are about to face.

Also, looking back, we see the great changes that have and are taking place here at Lafargue High School. We have devoted this yearbook to be a pictorial record of this transition from old to new. We hope you find these changes pleasing and that this record of our progress provides you with fond memories in years to come.







Dedication

The yearbook staff of 1979 dedicates this volume of "The Indian" to Mrs. Bernice Ryland.

As one of our favorite elementary teachers, she is best remembered by us for her inspiring guidance through difficult lessons; her service and dedication to us, her pupils; her kind soft-spoken manner; and the light in her eyes when Laura Ingalls Wilder is mentioned.

As we would put it, "Now that is what you call a good teacher."
